DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

1. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

2. Claims 7-11 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Vancelette (5,894,320) in view of Rainville et al (2002/0069411).

Vancelette, in Figures 1 and 7, discloses a multi-channel television system with viewer-selectable video and audio using substantially the same method and user interface for selecting from and viewing a plurality of video images each representing a unique camera angle captured by one or more cameras (e.g. 12-16) at an event at a given venue as specified in claims 7-11 of the present invention, comprising software for providing all of the plurality of video images (e.g. Fig. 3) and data including on-screen indicia (e.g. Fig. 7) to facilitate navigation between the plurality of video images to a receiver 44 as a bundled video image, the on-screen indicia comprising a bar 732, a display of navigation keys 710 to provide directional navigation instructions, and a textual description 732 of a video image currently being viewed; and video image selection means (e.g. 712-732) for selecting one of the received video images from the plurality of received video images, the video image selection means being presented throughout the event 710, such that selecting a particular video image from the plurality of video images received at the receiver directly changes from the current video image to the particular video image angle at the time of selecting the particular video image (e.g. 712-728).

Although Vancelette discloses all the on-screen navigation indicia, it is noted Vancelette differs from the present invention in that it fails to particularly disclose such indicia are transparent as specified in claims 7-11. Rainville et al however, in Figure 3, teaches the concept of such well known transparent display.

Therefore, it would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made, having both the references of Vancelette and Rainville et al before him/her, to exploit the well known transparent display technique of Rainville et al in the viewing device of Vancelette in order to avoid covering up any important part of the background image.

Response to Arguments

3. Applicant's arguments with respect to claims 7-11 have been considered but are moot in view of the new ground(s) of rejection.

Conclusion

4. Applicant's amendment necessitated the new ground(s) of rejection presented in this Office action. Accordingly, THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. See MPEP § 706.07(a). Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the date of this final action.
